Three days to go... Join us live for the awards ceremony!

Geneva, 6 November 2023 - On Thursday 9 November at 6.30pm, the 23rd Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) awards ceremony will be held at the Théâtre du Léman in Geneva. Join host Edouard Baer and the industry's leading stakeholders for an evening that will shine the spotlight on watchmaking creativity and excellence.

The ceremony will be broadcast live on 9 November from 6.30pm on gphg.org (live.gphg.org), with simultaneous translation in English, as well as on our YouTube and Facebook pages. You can also follow the highlights on Instagram.

Euronews will broadcast the event live on its website in several language, while Hantang Culture will be sharing this not-to-be-missed watchmaking happening on its many Chinese-language channels.

In addition, Léman Bleu will offer a differed broadcast of the event on 11 November 2023 at 8:15pm.

The GPHG media centre, accessible via our gphg.org website, will also provide access to images, videos, interviews, press releases and other information throughout the ceremony (<https://mediacenter.gphg.org/>).
